Review process

Writing your review:

Information regarding bias

Please start by providing an assessment of any potential bias on your part. Here, please take note of the criteria for potential bias, which you can view by following the link next to the field.

Reviewing an application for the programme Leibniz Collaborative Excellence

Welcome to the application review form of the Leibniz Competition!

Please take sufficient time to assess the quality of the application and take into account all information in the application form (including finance plan), the proposal (sections A to D) and attachments (CVs, lists of publications, etc.) Please take care to avoid any comments which might give indications as to your identity.

We ask you to assess the quality of each individual section (A-D) of the proposal separately. After writing your review please choose a funding recommendation: "A: recommended for funding with highest priority", "B: recommended for funding" or "C: not recommended for funding".

It is essential to the review process' transparency that you fill in all fields and choose a funding recommendation. We might otherwise be unable to take your review fully into account in the further processing of the application.

Thank you very much! Please do not hesitate to contact the Division Leibniz Competition in case of any questions (saw@leibniz-gemeinschaft.de).

Self-assessment of potential conflicts of interest

Please state whether or not you have previously been in contact with the applying institute or the individual researchers involved in the project, and check if there are any circumstances which may give rise to potential conflicts of interest (see the Criteria for potential bias).

 * Please remember to save your data regularly! * ***

Writing your review:

Assessing the individual sections

The review form is divided into sections A, B, C and D.

A) Quality and innovativeness of the research project (weighting: 40%)

Please assess above all the research project's:

- scientific and methodological excellence compared to international standards
- likelihood of success (its maturity, the work programme's concreteness, the project's general feasibility)
- originality and innovativeness
- relevance in terms of its contribution to solving current academic and social, ecological or economic problems

 Please remember to save your data regularly! *****

Please write an assessment of each section.

Assessment of Section A:

Please note: Concerning applications for Leibniz ScienceCampi, section A only needs to be assessed if it is a continuation application. You can find out whether or not it is a continuation application by reading the application form and the proposal text.

Writing your review:

Saving and funding recommendation

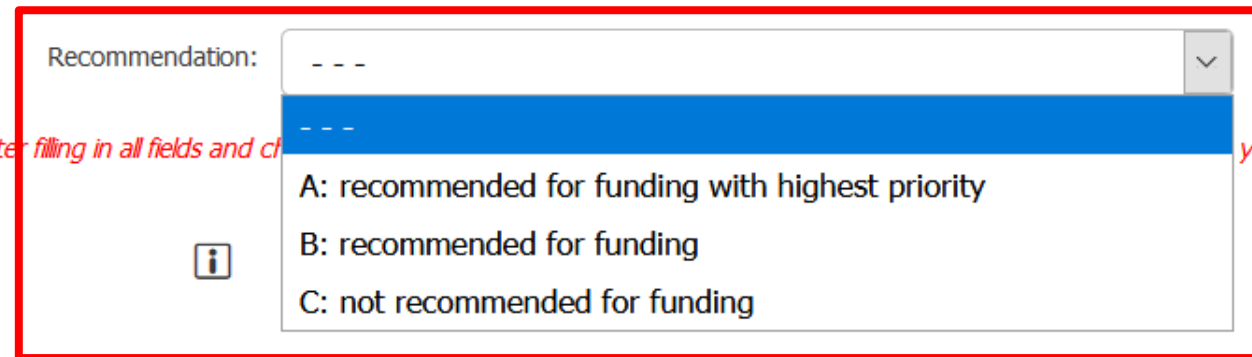

Please remember regularly to save your work using the button at the top of the page.

If you have not saved anything for more than 30 minutes, you will automatically be logged out for security reasons.

After writing your review, please choose a funding recommendation at the bottom of the page. You can choose from: “A: recommended for funding with highest priority”, “B: recommended for funding” or “C: not recommended for funding”.

Please submit your review only after filling in all fields and clicking the 'Save' button. Your review will be saved and your review fully into account.

A screenshot of a 'Recommendation:' dropdown menu. The menu is open, showing three options: 'A: recommended for funding with highest priority', 'B: recommended for funding', and 'C: not recommended for funding'. The dropdown is highlighted with a red rectangular box. To the left of the dropdown, there is a small information icon (i) and a red text box with instructions.

Review submitted on:

Information regarding section C for international reviewers

In section C, you are asked to assess the proposed project's potential strategic benefits to the Leibniz Association and local and/or regional scientific research profiles.

C) Strategic efficacy of the proposed research project (weighting: 10%)

Please assess above all the project's contribution to:

- the consolidation of already established Leibniz topics
- the development of new fields of research
- the development of the local/ regional scientific environment
- implementing the Leibniz equality standards and realising the Leibniz diversity objective
- implementing the Leibniz career guidelines

Please refer to the overview of the Leibniz Association's guidelines on career development and equal opportunities and the Leibniz Association's recruitment standards.

* * Please remember to save your data regularly! * ****

Assessment of Section C:

If you are not familiar with the Leibniz Association or the German research landscape, please do not hesitate to restrict your assessment to the plausibility of the applicant's arguments in this section.

Information regarding the programme Leibniz Collaborative Excellence

If you are writing a review for an application within the programme Leibniz Collaborative Excellence, please note that there are two different kinds of application: those of the type “particularly innovative collaboration”, and those of the type “High risk – high gain”. Depending on the type, please adjust the focus of your evaluation of section A as described:

A) Quality and innovativeness of the research project
(weighting: 40%)

Please assess above all the research project's:
- scientific and methodological excellence by international standards
- Assessment of the work programme
- Originality and innovativeness
 o For all projects, but especially for projects of the type “particularly innovative collaboration”: Synergies and scientific added value resulting from the network o Only for 'high-risk/high-gain' projects: the academic breakthrough expected in the event of success. Please note that projects of this type should not be disadvantaged in the assessment by the fact that the probability of success may be lower than for established concepts because of the particular risks associated with new research approaches.

Please note: the type of project (“particularly innovative collaboration” or “high-risk/high-gain”) is indicated on the front page of the proposal text and you can also find it on page 1 of the PDF (line 6)

- Scientific and social relevance

 Please remember to save your data regularly! ***

If you are uncertain as to the type of the application, please check page 1, line 6 of the application PDF document.

Applications of the type “High risk – high gain” are also labeled accordingly within the electronic administration system.
